

Meet a new friend
with every new word.

learning
to talk

Learning to Listen

Children with severe hearing loss who receive cochlear implants early in life have better speech and language skills than children who receive hearing aids. But their skills are still delayed compared to children with normal hearing.

Our research focuses on how children with cochlear implants process speech and language differently than children with normal hearing so we can develop more effective interventions.

Interested?

To sign up or learn more about our studies on Learning to Read, Talk, or Listen, visit:

www.learningtotalk.umd.edu

